

COMIC STRIP ACTIVITY In the six panels provided, turn your poem into a comic! Be sure to include visual details that are mentioned in your poem. In the gray boxes at the top of each panel, copy the line of the poem that you are illustrating. If your poem is more than six lines, pick the six most important lines and illustrate those. If it is less, divide it into six boxes. It is encouraged that your comic use personification (giving non-human objects the ability to talk, behave, etc.) Your comic will be graded on neatness and effort, but not artistic talent. Don't forget to include background details and avoid big awkward white
