

Unsolved Mystery Infographic- My Theory

After researching your unsolved mystery, come up with your own new theory as to what really happened. Your theory does not need to be very likely, but it must be supported by facts you have discovered as part of your research.

WRITE YOUR THEORY IN THE SPACE BELOW:

What three pieces of evidence (facts) have you found in your research that supports that theory?

#1 _____

#2 _____

#3 _____

To accompany your research paper, create an info-graphic on a 8.5 x13” sheet of “legal-sized” paper that displays the following information

_____ The title of your mystery, written as a question in large, easy-to-read lettering

_____ A one paragraph summary of your mystery with a printed picture included

_____ 3 pieces of evidence that you want the reader of your infographic to consider + pictures

_____ Your new theory, presented as a paragraph similar in length to the one at the top of the infographic

Your infographic may be created on Piktochart or it may be created by hand. Points will be deducted for messy work, spelling errors, and big awkward white spaces.

ALL HAND-WRITTEN INFOGRAPHICS MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY A ROUGH DRAFT, COMPLETED BY HAND IN PENCIL.
